Reading Newsletter

March 2022

Welcome to the latest edition of our reading newsletter. I hope you found the first edition of the newsletter useful. There is lots to share this month as we have Book Week fast approaching. World Book Day is on the 3rd March and typically this is the time when schools dress up and we give out a £1 voucher for the children to use and well know book stores. Our Book Week though, is the week beginning the 22nd March so please read on to find out more about what we are doing.....

THE LIBRARY IS BACK!!!!!!

I am really excited to share with you that following the ease of restrictions we are now able to open the library for everyone to enjoy. The children are also able to access the library at lunchtime to enjoy reading a book or two. Year R will be the first to go this week, followed by Year 1 etc.

Book Week (22.3.2022 – 25.02.2022)

In the last edition I shared with you that Adisa will be joining us, a performance poet from the beautiful island of Barbados, additionally we have a newly published author coming to share their new picture book.

I am not a fan of dressing up for book week, I think it causes un-necessary stress and expense for parents. Therefore, here are a list of things that you and your child can do for book week; everyone will be given a little prize for their effort.

Re-create your own book cover

Design your own potato book character

Photoshop yourself reading a book in an unusual place

Many congratulations to our children in school who have successfully reached their reading goals. There were so many winners this week and it was an absolute pleasure to be able to surprise them in Celebration Assembly on Friday. Well done to you all.
